JinkoSolar Modules Receive Fire Resistance Certification from Italy's Istituto Giordano

June 4, 2013

SHANGHAI, June 4, 2013 /PRNewswire/ -- JinkoSolar Holding Co., Ltd. ("JinkoSolar" or the "Company") (NYSE: JKS), a leading global solar power product manufacturer, today announced that its modules have received fire resistance certification from Italy's Istituto Giordano. JinkoSolar's modules achieved certification of Reaction to Fire in accordance with Italian standard of "Guide for the installation of photovoltaic system edition 2012": The testing result was class 1, the highest performance level.

Istituto Giordano is a technical organization at the forefront on product testing, certification, research, design and training since 1959. The certification Reaction to Fire Class 1 is in accordance with the "Guide for the Installation of Photovoltaic Systems 2012 Edition" issued by Italy's Ministry of Interior-Department of firefighters, Public Rescue and Civil Defense to ensure that the PV modules installed on roof tops do not propagate fire.

"JinkoSolar is very pleased as this certification once again demonstrates our ability to produce solar panels that reliably deliver the safest performance in real world conditions," stated Mr. Kangping Chen, CEO of JinkoSolar. "With customers in numerous geographically diverse markets, we pride ourselves on setting new standards to guarantee the safety of our products by obtaining global certification."
